WASHINGTON

Is Told about in An Address in the Trinity Church Colored.

In recognition of the first president of this country, George Washington, services were held at the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, colored, last evening.

Some striking qualities of this splendid man were discussed by Attorney J. Moore. He said truthfulness was taught him while at his mother's knee. This quality possessed him through life, and pointed him out to men and made him useful to God. God, when He needed a leader for the struggling people, He made choice of Washington—a man of truth. We must build upon truth Christianity, right and righteousness if we hope to endure. Graft and greed would upset this whole country's noble purposes and lofty aims were they not founded upon the one great principle—truth—so deeply woven into the life of its first

These qualities are in us—something that should stand. Let us develop them. Providence left him fatherless that he might be the father of his country. Think of this, and be fathers of a race.
